Tyson Para
Investment Advisor Representative | Licensed Insurance & Annuity Specialist

Tyson Para is a fourth-generation Eastern Washington native whose background spans agriculture, business ownership, and comprehensive financial services. As a member of the Team Liberty network and a licensed Investment Advisor Representative, Tyson brings a breadth of financial capability that is rarely found in a single advisor relationship.
A core part of how Tyson approaches planning is the belief that every dollar should have a job. Not every dollar does the same job — some need to be liquid and available, some need to be safe and growing, some need to be working harder over time, and some need to be positioned to capture opportunities when they arise. Getting that structure right is where real financial clarity begins.

Tyson's work sits at the intersection of investment management, insurance strategy, retirement planning, and private market access. Working alongside the Team Liberty family of professionals, he is positioned to serve clients across a wide range of financial needs — from protecting what they have built today to growing and transferring wealth across generations.

On the investment side, Tyson offers access to professionally managed portfolios through Schwab's institutional platform, private credit strategies, real estate income funds, real estate development funds, 1031 exchange programs, and a range of alternative market investments. These are the kinds of institutional-quality tools and strategies that have historically been available only to larger investors or through major wirehouse relationships — now accessible to families and business owners right here in the Pacific Northwest.

On the protection and planning side, Tyson specializes in fixed indexed annuities, indexed universal life insurance, tax-free retirement income strategies, asset protection, estate planning coordination, and multi-generational wealth transfer.

Whether a client is a pre-retiree looking to build a reliable income strategy, a business owner navigating a transition, a farmer or rancher thinking about the next generation, or a family seeking to make smarter decisions about their financial future — Tyson brings the relationships, the tools, and the experience to help them get there.

His philosophy is straightforward: serve people well, build strategies you'd put in front of your own family, and trust that the results will speak for themselves.
